Please attach additional on-farm research description information.

The Upper Big Blue NRD is committed to improving water quality. As part of that mission, we support on-farm research efforts that address critical water quality issues. If your proposed research study has a water quality focus, you may be eligible for additional support. This support will vary based on project design. In some instances it may cover district staff and equipment use; in others, it may cover a portion of the costs of lab analysis of soil, plant tissue, or water samples. Please complete the following so that we can assess how we can best support your interest in conducting on-farm research on topics of importance to water quality.
